

Meet the Romanian people

This week I will take you to meet some of the friends I have made over the last 22 years. We will visit their homes and share their hospitality. Ela will come with us as a translator so that you can ask questions and chatter away to your heart's content.

We will meet village people, farmers, doctors, teachers, priests, gypsies etc., etc. and we will go to the market, the churches, the city and the monastery. We will visit those who keep alive the old crafts and, if you wish, we will even visit an illegal still and see how the local brew is made.

The people of Romania are gentle and hospitable. Their story is colourful and fascinating. I'm sure you will make friends and have a fun week.

Canon Pat Robson is the author of several books on Celtic Christianity and the founder of the White Cross Mission. She lives in Cornwall. Please feel free to phone her to discuss this retreat.
